

FACT SHEET

Citizenship, Identification and Income Documentation Required for Approval of Medicaid

Overview

The Georgia Department of Community Health (DCH) sets Medicaid eligibility policy based on state and federal laws and regulations. The Georgia Department of Human Services (DHS), Division of Family and Children Services (DFCS), implements Medicaid policies. County DFCS offices determine eligibility for Medicaid applicants. DCH provides DFCS with policy guidance to implement the Citizenship and Identity Documentation Requirement as defined in the Federal Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 (DRA).

An overview of the DRA Citizenship and Identity Documentation policy is below.

Note: Medicaid applicants and members are required to verify their citizenship and identity only once. It is not required at their next eligibility renewal. The original documents must be presented and copied; notarized copies are not acceptable.

Citizenship/Identification Policy Overview

- In January 2006, the state of Georgia began requiring Medicaid applicants and members to verify their U.S. citizenship. The DRA provided further guidelines to Georgia about the documentary evidence required before Medicaid eligibility is granted or renewed. This guidance became effective July 1, 2006. The DRA provisions require that a person submit evidence of both citizenship and identity.
- The DRA specifies certain forms of acceptable evidence of citizenship and identity and provides for the use of additional forms of documentation as established by federal regulations.

Exempt Groups from Citizenship, Identification and Income Documentation Requirements

- Individuals who receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits.
- Children who receive federal foster care or adoption assistance benefits.
- Children in foster care receiving child welfare services.
- Individuals on Social Security disability.
- Individuals receiving Medicare.
- No verification of citizenship/identity is required for newborns whose mother was enrolled in Medicaid on the newborn's date of birth.

- A required-order approach must be used in which documentary evidence of citizenship and identity is sought first from a list of primary documents.
- If an applicant or member presents evidence from the list of primary documentation, no other information will be required. When such evidence cannot be obtained, the state will look to the next tier of acceptable forms of evidence.

A reasonable opportunity period may be granted to an applicant who needs more time to provide these documents.

Citizenship and Identification Document Rules

To verify citizenship and identity:

- U.S. Passport (not limited passports).
- Certificate of Naturalization (N-550 or N-570).
- Certificate of Citizenship (N-560 or N-561).

If the above documents are not available, then any of the following documents may be accepted to verify citizenship only:

- U.S. Public Birth Record showing birth in one of the 50 states; District of Columbia; American Territories; or Guam.
- U.S. birth certificate or data match with a State Vital Statistic Agency.
- Certification of Report of Birth (DS-1350).
- Consular Report of Birth Abroad of a Citizen of the U.S. (FS-240).
- Certification of Birth Abroad (FS-545).
- U.S. Citizen Identification Card (I-197 or the prior version I-179).
- American Indian Card (I-872) with the classification "KIC" (Issued by DHS to identify U.S. citizen members of the Texas Band of Kickapoos living near the US/Mexican border).
- Collective Naturalization document/Northern Mariana Identification Card (I-873).
- Final Adoption Decree (Showing child's name and U.S. birthplace).
- Evidence of civil service employment by the U.S. government.
- Official Military Record (Showing a U.S. birthplace).

For individuals under age 16 who are unable to produce a document listed above, the following documents are acceptable to establish identity only:

- School record including report card, day care or nursery school record; must verify record with issuing school.
- Immunization Certificate Form 3231.
- Clinic, doctor or hospital record showing birth date.
- Affidavit signed under penalty of perjury by a parent/guardian (Contact DFCS).
- A signed Declaration of Citizenship form that includes the child's date and place of birth (Contact DFCS).

The document(s) must provide identifying information about the person named on the document. The DFCS MES will assist the applicant in locating additional documents that verify identity and citizenship if none of the documents listed above is available.

Income Document Rules

Income can be either earned or unearned income. Some income is included in the applicant's budget to determine Medicaid eligibility and some income is not included; certain types of income are entitled to allowable deductions per regulations. It is important for the applicant to report all income.

- Income consists of wages, Social Security, unemployment benefits, etc.
- A month's worth of income verification is needed at a minimum to obtain a representative monthly amount to determine the applicant's Medicaid eligibility.
- If an electronic source is not available, income can be verified using four weeks' worth of check stubs, employer statements, Social Security award letters, unemployment compensation award letters, court documents, tax records (for self-employment), etc.

The following Family Medicaid groups are subject to Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI) rules effective January 1, 2014:

- Pregnant Women.
- Children under 19 years of age.
- Parents Caretakers/with children under age 19.
